A Rural Borough of Single-Family Homes

Raeling is limited, and there are no apartment houses.

BY JERRY CHESLOW

The concentration of retail strip and strip malls along New Jersey Roads 22 is in Mountainside and Echelon, large forlorn buildings for 2.5 miles on the highway through the Union County municipalities of Mountainside, Echelon, North Arlington, East Orange, and Bloomfield. The highway also runs through the borough, which is the largest in Union County. Although the city has a police department, the fire department, the library, and the municipal court, the borough is not a city. Mountainside is a part of the Newark metropolitan area, with most of its residents living in the city. Mountainside is also home to Children's Hospital of New Jersey, a major children's hospital.

Mountainside is a town in Union County, New Jersey, United States. As of the 2010 United States Census, the population of the borough was 20,786. The borough is located in the northeastern corner of Union County and is bordered on the north by Elizabeth, on the south by Rahway, on the east by Weehawken, New Jersey, and on the west by East Orange, New Jersey. The town is surrounded by miles of green space, including Echo Lake Park, Valleywood Reservation, and Hilltop Reservation. The town is also home to the Baltusrol Golf Club, a prestigious golf course.

Mountainside was incorporated as a borough in 1899, and is governed by a mayor and council. The town is served by the Mountainside School District, which operates two elementary schools and one middle school. The town also has a recreation department, which offers a variety of programs and activities for residents of all ages.

Mountainside is home to a variety of businesses, including a large shopping mall, a hospital, and several parks and recreational facilities. The town is also home to a number of historic sites, including the Mountainside Golf Club, which was built in 1895.

On the Market

Mountainside offers a variety of housing options, from single-family homes to apartments and townhouses. The housing market is competitive, with prices ranging from the mid-$200,000s to the high-$500,000s. The median price of a single-family home in Mountainside is $300,000. The median price of a condo or townhouse is $200,000. The median price of a studio apartment is $150,000.

The town is served by the Mountainside School District, which operates two elementary schools and one middle school. The district offers a variety of programs and activities for students of all ages. The town also has a recreation department, which offers a variety of programs and activities for residents of all ages.

The town is home to a variety of businesses, including a large shopping mall, a hospital, and several parks and recreational facilities. The town is also home to a number of historic sites, including the Mountainside Golf Club, which was built in 1895.